SHOCKING TALE OF NURSES

Followed by Arrest of a St. Louis Woman on Serious Charges.

ST. LOUIS, MO. Nov. 18.-The Post-Dispatch this afternoon says that Mrs Henrictta Bamberger, a midwife, living a 190 Coulean avenue, has been arrested or DO Coutean avenue, has been arrested on a bench-warrant sworn out on information laid before the grand jury.

The witnesses whose testimony, the Post-Dispatch says, resulted in Mrs. Ramberger's arrest are Lizzie Rieger, Mary Haar and the latter's married sister all of whom have been in the employ of Mrs. Bamberger as surses.

The Post-Dispatch continues: "The story related by the nurses is almost incredible. Five indictments were found against Mrs. Bamberger late this afternoon by the grand jury. One charges murder in the first degree, three charge marder in the first degree, three charge marder in the second degree."

A PERTINENT SUGGESTION Called Out by Some Recent and Wonderful Journalistic Peregrinations. Graclously enough, the Evening Post concedes that "the President has got his desired vote of confidence from the country." Less graciously it declares that the confidence is not deep as a well nor as wide as a church door, though it will do.

Having granted thus much it proceeds to outline a programme for the administration. After enamerating the things the President should do. It complacently remarks that havy will be be if h does them. This is by no means the first enumeration. For about two years the Post has been telling the President how to seems haveness it tas been showing him how to obtain the confidence of the country. Obtainately enough, the President blundered along on his own account. dont blundered along on his own account.
Obstinately enough, he left undone the things the Post told him to do, and did just the things the Post told him not to want of confidence had he listened to and taken the advice of the Post There is, of course to resurance that history will not repeat itself.
